UTILITY, not originality, has been aimed at in the compilation of this work. The difficulties and obstacles its author had met with, in his endeavors to learn something of the article he was commissioned to sell, when he first entered the Tea business, and the almost total lack of knowledge displayed by the average dealer in the commodity, allied to the numerous inquiries made from time to time for a work, containing all about tea, first prompted the undertaking. The material was collated at intervals in a fragmentary manner, and arranged amid the many interruptions incident to a business life, being subjected to constant revisions, repeated prunings and frequent corrections, due mainly, to the conflicting opinions and varying statements of authorities in every branch of the subject. Yet, as careful an arrangement of the data has been given as possible, a faithful effort being made to omit nothing that may prove useful, instructive or profitable to the general reader, or those who trade in or use the article. It was compiled under impulse, not under inducement. Not a line being intended originally for the market, and is published solely for those whom it may concern. While rendering due credit for much of the contents to the appended publications, viz., Johnson's and the Encyclopedias Britannica, Americana and similar works, its author feels called upon to express his indebtedness particularly to Mr. David M. Stone, editor-in-chief of the New York Journal of Commerce for the invariably kind, prompt and valuable information furnished him in his efforts to produce A Cup of Tea. Aware that many errors may have been committed, and many facts have been...
